MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director for Support

(SUBJECT : Off-Campus Programs

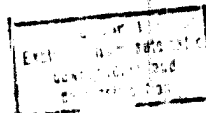

1. This memorandum contains a recommendation for your approval; such recommendation is contained in paragraph 4.

2. Reference is made to your request for an Office of Security review of the restriction limiting off-campus courses of George Washington and American Universities given here in the Headquarters building to "overt" employees. This restriction arose because, at the time the student is registered at the university for credit, he is openly identified as being an employee of this Agency.

NOTE FOR: Mr. Coffey

SUBJECT : Off Campus Education Program

1. The fall off in the Off Campus Education Program was discussed at the 18 February meeting of Support Officers. Several reasons were advanced for this fall off. The principal reason is probably because we are hiring better educated recruits; we are getting more college graduates who do not need to take the undergraduate type courses offered in the Off Campus Program. The Program is quite expensive - if an individual is not sponsored by the Agency -- $132 per semester as contrasted with Northern Virginia's program which runs about $45 per semester course.  still a real problem, particularly for Commo  problem has been checked out with Security and it is real according to OTR. The Office of Finance does not sponsor undergraduate courses in accounting; Finance careerists can obtain undergraduate accounting cheaply and more responsive to their needs at Strayer or Ben Franklin. OTR has always pushed the Off Campus Program; the previous Registrar  was particularly positive about it.

2. I think ~~the~~ reality suggests that this Program principally benefits Office of Economic Research where a number of courses of a single discipline can be offered.

In the past several weeks we have experienced very encouraging results from our first students in external language training at the

3. Off-Campus Programs Repeat Disappointing Registration Figures

Spring registration for the Agency Off-Campus Program was again disappointing. George Washington University has not permitted running any of the four courses offered because of the extremely low registration totaling 18. All but four of the 18 registrants were accommodated at other Off-Campus installations and only one of the four was Agency-sponsored.

Although American University lowered the minimum average to ten students per course, they are permitting us to run nine of the ten courses offered despite our average being just under the required minimum, and two classes have only five students each. Total enrollment in the A. U. program is [redacted] are Agency-sponsored. In the Spring 1968 session there were [redacted] and in Spring 1967 session there were [redacted]

Admissions and Information Branch this semester expanded publicity by memoranda to Agency Training Officers and notices in the AIB Weekly Newsletter, placed posters in all buildings and extended registration through 31 January.

4. Army-Navy No-Cost Courses Go Wanting

Regrettably, some slots had to be turned back to the Navy and Army this week for excellent no-cost courses. One involved two slots in the Price Analysis and Contract Negotiation Course, reported last week. Shortness of time prevented OL from filling them; TSD was also interested but [redacted] prevented use of a slot.

A slot in the 3 February running of the Army Installation Management Course, a three-week no-cost course conducted at Fort Belvoir, also had to be defaulted because neither the Support Services nor the Intelligence Directorate could produce a student.

7. Other Training Topics

Language School instructors reviewed a German audio-visual kit produced by Berlitz for Pathescope Educational Films consisting of slide sequences which are coordinated with tapes to expand proficiency in listening comprehension. The slides were generally regarded to be excellent -- pictures of modern Germany and people in everyday situations -- and the accompanying tapes similarly well done. We are considering the purchase of the full set of 30 lessons as a supplement to the LS German materials. . . . Members of the Regulations Control Staff have expressed an interest to the Intelligence School in having a special Writing Workshop tailored to the needs of people throughout the Agency who are involved in writing Agency bulletins and regulations. . . .

8. Non-Agency Briefings
